WARTBURG GRAD NEW PRINCIPAL AT PLAINFIELD

Elmer Kretzschmar Also Promoted to Head Coach Post.

Elmer Kretzschmar, a graduate of Wartburg, who is now teaching in the Plainfield high school, has accepted the position of principal and coach in the high school at Plainfield. He succeeds Roger E. Miller who resigned to accept a teaching position at Clarinda high school.

This is the second year that Mr. Kretzschmar, whose home is in Sumner, is teaching at Plainfield. He graduated from Wartburg in June, 1936. During the two previous years he attended Wartburg college at Clinton. In '32-'33 Mr. Kretzschmar was enrolled at Wartburg normal college in Waverly.

While at Wartburg, Mr. Kretzschmar was active in the male chorus, Round Table, basketball, and was a member of the quartet. During his senior year, '35-'36, he was honorary captain of the basketball team.

The courses which Mr. Kretzschmar teaches include world history, reading, and Latin. He also coaches the girls' basketball team. Prior to his appointment to the new position, he was assistant coach and also taught English. Mr. Behrens, of Iowa State Teachers' college, will fill the vacancy in the English department.

PRINCIPAL

Elmer Kretzschmar, Wartburg graduate of the June 1936 class, is now acting principal of the Plainfield high school. He is also serving as head coach of the athletic teams at the school.

CHOIR TO MAKE ILLINOIS TOUR

Will Visit Seventeen Cities; Radio Broadcasts Planned; May Visit East Iowa.

According to Walter Priebe, chairman of the tour committee, the Wartburg A Capella Choir will travel over 1,000 miles in chartered busses this year through Illinois on the annual spring tour. Seventeen cities in Illinois, including Chicago, Peoria, Peru, Streator and Lincoln, will entertain the group.

If present plans are completed, broadcasts will be made from the studio of WLS and possibly from WBBM, Chicago stations. By special request of Rev. P. Brockhaus, the chorus will sing an arrangement of the "Lord's Prayer," as composed by Mrs. Brockhaus in the concert at Lincoln, Ill.

The committee, composed of Walter Priebe, Lewis Holm, Irene Drewelow, Erwin Knitt and Professor Liemohn, is also planning a few concerts in eastern Iowa. It has already contacted Dubuque and Clinton and hopes to reach Bellevue and possibly Davenport in the near future.

Rev. Carl Schalkhauser will arrange the itinerary when he takes over his new duties as field agent.

DISAPPEARS

Liemohn's Office Minus Typewriter.

An Underwood portable typewriter belonging to Professor E. Liemohn was stolen from room 21 in Old Main last Thursday noon between 12:00 and 1:00.

Prior to the theft, a suspicious character was seen in Old Main by Mrs. Brehmer, Professor Heist, President E. J. Braulick, Mr. Pichelmeyer and Professor Liemohn. As yet, no clues have been found concerning the whereabouts of the typewriter.

Pres. E. J. Braulick represented Wartburg at the P. T. A. meeting at Stanley, Iowa. He spoke on the topic, "A Monument More Enduring Than Brass." The Wartburg trio sang a number, and Miss Loraine Eckstein played a violin solo.

'NO MON, NO FUN' JUNIORS WORRY ABOUT TREASURY

Class to Sponsor 'Crusades' in Effort to Give Banquet.

Have you noticed the worried expression of the junior class president? Those manly shoulders seem stooped and rounded from a heavy load of worry. The junior class itself is no longer that happy-go-lucky and carefree group it once was. It has a definite responsibility and duty to perform soon.

The annual cause of grey hair which always besets the junior classes about this time is once more here. That old and ever-present question which seems to be the source of all evil has once more reared its ugly head. Money and more money! How can we get it? Shylock himself has nothing on the junior class at this moment.

Ah, but, seniors, don't be alarmed! Be patient. You shall have your banquet if the class must sell the proverbial shirt off its back! We shall not disappoint those illustrious and all-deserving seniors. The time is at hand when all must cooperate to save the mental state of the junior class.

Here is the plan. (We can perhaps be accused of taking the easiest way out, who would condemn us for that? You'd do the same). All college students have, in one way or another, heard mention of the Crusades. Doesn't the very name arouse your latent interest? That extremely important event of history has been made into an interesting and educational picture. If you have only a smattering of knowledge of those crusades, you can realize what possibilities there are in such a movie. The junior class gives you the timely opportunity for furthering your education. It's a great show! Take it from someone who has seen it. Bring your best girl and help the junior class feed the seniors. How about it, guys and gals? Can we count on your cooperation and support? Help make the junior class once more that happy, smiling group they once were, without the heavy cares of money matters preying upon their minds. Think of the endless good you will be doing for the general morals and spirit of the class. Save your pennies. Let's all go to the show!

WEEKLY SERVICES ON LENT SCHEDULE

Two evening services will be held weekly during Lent at St. Paul's Lutheran church. Dr. John Hiltner of Wartburg will have charge of the German services on Wednesday evenings, while Rev. R. C. Schlueter will conduct the English services on Friday evenings.

Business Manager

Immanuel Kuester, senior Pre-The student from Riplinger, Wis., is handling the business end of the college annual publication, The Fortress, this year. The senior class is sponsoring the project this spring.

MARRIAGE TOPIC OF SYMPOSIUM

Dr. Hiltner, Miss Ratzlaff Talk on Friendship and Love at L. S. A. Meeting.

"Friendship, Love and Marriage" from the Christian and modern prevailing attitudes was the subject of a symposium held Sunday evening at Wartburg hall by members of the Lutheran Students association.

Miss Ida Ratzlaff of the Home Economics department discussed the modern attitude, stressing in the greater part of her address the successful marriage.

Four major reasons were given for failure of marriage: sexual maladjustment, incompetent home making, insufficient use of leisure time and failure to agree on division of labor.

Dr. John Hiltner spoke on the Christian attitude toward the subject in question, giving the Biblical views on love, marriage and divorce. He defined love as the "process of complementing each other" and named it as the greatest principle in solving all marriage problems.

A discussion of the subject was led by Dean A. Fritz, who gave the topic practical meaning with reference to the present problems of college students.

ACTION ON PURCHASE OF SCHOOL BUS POSTPONED

The question of whether or not the school shall purchase a bus has been tabled for the time being. The board has decided that further study of the project is necessary.

AT CUPID'S PARTY

Their heads were cozy! The colonial couple at the left is Walter Priebe and Amanda Walck. The other couple, period and habitat unknown, is Edwin Oberauer and Harry Rappath. They had a great time at Wartburg's costume party Saturday night, Feb. 12.

HOLM TO HEAD FROSH EDITING NEXT TRUMPET

Appoints Aids to Put Out March 12 Issue of Paper.

Lewis Holm of Clinton, Iowa will serve as editor of the freshman issue of the Trumpet which will appear two weeks from today. His chief assistants will be Elmer Henrichs of Danforth, Ill., associate editor, and Norma Neubauer of Oelwein, news editor.

The sports department will be handled by Rudolph Anderson, Martin Deitmer and Ontke Ihnen, according to present plans. Freshman features will be by Esther Weiss and Betty Wiederanders, feature editors for the first year issue. Reporters who will uphold the freshman tradition include: Paulus Braulick, Marty Heist, Ada Mae Little, Evelyn Lenth, Geraldine Sixel, Irene Drewelow, Amanda Walck, Erwin Walz, Janice Black, Janice Mueller and Donald Comnick.

The freshmen will assume charge of the editorial and reportorial duties, including the writing of headlines, copy reading, and proof-reading. Reid Jepson, regular staff cartoonist, will draw his usual "Not New But True," but freshmen are urged to contribute frosh facts to him. Prof. H. J. Kuhlmann and the regular editor will stand by in case help is needed.

MUSEUM MOVED UP TWO FLOORS

Under Aardal's Supervision Four Classifications Will Be Made.

Under the supervision of Prof. A. A. Aardal, the Wartburg college museum is being relocated on the third floor of Old Main. The work is being done by campus workers under the direction of Charles Pichelmeyer, superintendent of buildings and grounds. The job, which has been under way the last two weeks, will be completed by the end of the month. The greater part of the museum was formerly housed in the two west rooms on the first floor of Old Main. These rooms are now occupied by the college book store and post office.

Four Sections.

The museum as it is now arranged occupies the entire third floor and is divided into four distinct sections. These classifications are to be known as the New Guinea collection, the Indian and early American collection, the animal collection, and the geological collection.

PRE-THES

Discuss Character for Sem Entrance.

"Should character requirements be established for seminary entrance?" was the topic discussed at the regular informal discussion meeting of the Pre-Theological society in the recreation room of Wartburg hall Feb. 13. Franklin Brehmer, chairman of the program committee, had charge of the meeting.

There was much pro and con discussion. It was pointed out that the faculty at the seminary has charge of the conduct of the students there. They may dismiss anyone who does not live up to the seminary's regulations. The opinion was freely expressed that since we cannot accurately judge character, it would be impossible justly to censure anyone.

Those in favor of having the requirement set up suggested a code of regulations be established and that the students must conform to these regulations or requirements before being given admission to the seminary.

LENT

Ash Wednesday marks the beginning of Lent—that season of the church year which commemorates the suffering and death of the Savior. It is observed for a period of forty days in memory of Christ's forty hours in the grave or of His forty days in the desert. Since the Sundays which fall within this season are regarded as days of joy, only week days belong to Lent. It is preeminently a season of prayer and meditation, and, in some churches, of fasting. The spirit of humility gives tone to all religious observances. For this reason all boisterous and worldly conduct is shunned. Parties, dances, gay social gatherings, marriages, secular musicales, theater-goings, elaborate banquetings and other gay affairs are discouraged. Dress and deportment are in keeping with the spirit of the Savior's passion.

Though recognizing the fact that the New Testament offers no commandment to fast and observe special holidays, the protestant churches recognize the value of true Lenten observance. Who can prayerfully reflect on the passion of Christ without feeling humble? Without emulating His noble example of forbearance and forgiveness? Observance of Lent brings no special merit or virtue; nevertheless, who can gainsay that its proper observance aids in giving deeper insight into Christ's vicarious atonement, and in developing Christian character? Many a Christian has grown nobler, more charitable, and more spiritual in consequence of his observance of Lent.—E. J. B.

Start the Presses Rolling!

Once again the freshman Knights have accepted the annual challenge to edit an issue of our college paper. Immediately after this issue appears, the freshman staff will start to grind out copy for the next Trumpet.

Those of us who have been in the game for months or years and who know the amount of time and effort required to publish an issue, salute the freshman staff and wish them good luck.

Stick To It

Soon the cold and bleak days will be over; soon again the trees will bud, the birds call, and the balmy breezes blow. With this change will arrive the annual siege of spring fever. Those of us who succumb will find it extremely hard to stay in our rooms and study while the warm sun beckons or the fragrant breezes invite to the moonlight campus.

And so—while winter hangs on, let us keep steadily at our work. We know from experience that what is not done now will be much harder to do later. Will a word to the wise be sufficient?

—T—

Washington, Lincoln, and We

This month of February has seen the birthdays of two of our greatest Americans come and go—one of whom gave the best years of his life to establish our country, and of another who died in the successful attempt to save the Union. What responses have the memories of these men stirred in our hearts? Have they not asked us what we are doing for our country, the country for which they gave so much?

We realize that it will not be our privilege to equal the heroic deeds of these men. Yet there are a few ways in which we can and should do something for our country. We can remember our country in our prayers; we can uphold its ideals by word and deed; we can perform our duties as law-abiding and loyal citizens; and we can lead Christian lives of probity and charity. If each of us will undertake to do these things, we shall be doing our part toward making this country of ours worthy of its heroes—of Washington and Lincoln.

Arnold Kuester

Arnold Martin Kuester, Wartburg's football captain this last season, was born in Riplinger, Wisconsin, on May 10, 1915, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Kuester. He is a farmer-boy, and he says that his girl must be a farmer-girl . . . . the line forms to the right, you farmerettes!

He attended the Junior high at Riplinger for one year, St. Paul Academy for three years, St. Paul-Luther college for one year, and Wartburg for the last three years. He is a member of the W club and the Science club.

Arnie's favorite sport is football, but he also participates in baseball. By the way, Arnie really got good practice giving speeches from all those he had to make in convocation when he was captain. Arnie has won nine letters in athletics, including those of this year. Arnie likes football best because, as he says, "That's the only game in which you can give to a man what he gives to you!"

"Tubby" has several hobbies. One is pestering Oppie, another is making a scrap-book of sports stories, and another is playing bridge and skat. His pet peeve is "guys who gripe on the basketball court when 1 referee."

One of his interesting experiences was making a 500-mile round trip in "Mabel," a Model-T Ford. Two years ago he had the thrill of playing against his brother in the Homecoming football game. His greatest thrill was winning this year's Homecoming game.

Arnie is an assistant in the biology department this year. He plans to teach biology and coach sports in a high school. His greatest ambition is to be coach of a winning team. Another of his memorable experiences took place at St. Paul Academy when he rolled a dumb-bell up the lawn with his nose. Last summer Arnie was best man at his brother's wedding (he has seven brothers). He said he was shaking like a leaf, and there he had to stand with a ring in each hand. Aw, pshaw, Arnie, that was simply good practice! "Aw, nuts!" says Tubby.

Paul Wenske

Paul Chris Wenske, born January 23, 1915, is the son of wheat farmers, Mr. and Mrs. William Wenske, of Glenvil, Nebraska.

He attended Hebron Academy, Hebron Junior college, and Wartburg. He is a pre-the, majoring in German. He belongs to Pre-The, the W club, second chorus, and Deutscher Verein. He enjoys football (he has won three letters in it) and he participated in track at Hebron.

Some of his pals informed us that Wenske would like to be a second Charles Atlas, the perfect specimen. He, himself, told us that Max Schmeling is his ideal, and someone else added that Wenske had a regular session with the punching bag every evening. His hobby is collecting snaps for his album and reading the football and boxing articles in athletic magazines. His pet peeve is having cigaret butts scattered over the hall floors of Grossmann. You see, Wenske is the cleaner-upper. He said that he had to sweep the floors every day. Knitt added, "And then they aren't clean!" Wenske's answer to that remark was that his hardest job is to keep the floor clean in front of Knitt's door.

Wenske's been places. He has inspected Milwaukee with its beer, Colorado with its Rockies, and Illinois—"There wasn't anything there," said Wenske. One of his unforgettable experiences is being "dumped" out of bed seven times in one night. This happened when he was a freshman at the academy.

When Paul was asked what his favorite expression was, Otto Matthias volunteered with: "Oh, he says a lot of things!"

Paul C.'s dream girl is brunette, wavy-haired, blue-eyed, athletic, and 5 feet 7 inches tall. He said he would hate to get round-shouldered from stooping down too much.

Edward Wagner

Edward Wagner, from Max, N. Dak., was born in the spring, April 30, 1914, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Wagner, who are now retired farmers.

He attended Max high school, St. Paul-Luther, and Wartburg. Eddie is president of Deutscher Verein (was vice-president last year), a member of Pre-The, L. S. A. A., first chorus, business manager of the Trumpet, and first bass in the male quartet. He is the senior class president. Eddie is majoring in Greek, and plans to enter the sem at Dubuque next year.

Tennis ranks number one in his sports, and track also is well up on the list. His hobbies are collecting stamps, working crossword puzzles and reading good literature as well as magazine articles—"Country Gentleman," "Colliers," and "Harper's." Waggie's spare time is taken up with work at the A & P store—the best store in town if we believe Eddie. He says the store has cheap prunes!

Eddie enjoys good shows (usually those adapted from books), the funny paper, and the German band on the radio. We quizzed him on movie stars; he didn't like that because he said he wasn't a fan at all. Nevertheless, he had something to say about them:

1. I like to hear Dick Powell sing.
2. I like Jeannette MacDonald fairly well.
3. Bette Davis plays some screwy parts.
4. Clark Gable isn't as good as he is bragged up to be.
5. Mickey Mouse is silly.

At this point in the proceedings, Eddie said, "That's enough," but we kept right on.

When asked about more experiences, he was like the little boy who said, "There isn't much to tell about me—I just growed!" However, he told us about several good ones . . . .

The other night Eddie's boss loaned Eddie the car. Later, when the boss wanted to go home, he couldn't find the car. He telephoned the police that his car had been stolen, and the report was broadcast over the radio immediately. When the poor man was on his way home, he saw the car and remembered loaning it to Eddie. It's a good thing the cop didn't see you first, Waggie. He probably would have said, "Shame, shame!" and put you in jail.

Ed also teaches a Sunday school class of little boys. He dislikes having the adult Sunday school class give his class their undivided attention. He says that puts him "on the spot," and he doesn't like it!!!

Edwin Hoops of Wartburg left for his home in Nebraska to attend to business matters incident to the death of of relative.

Spring, sweet spring is in the air, so we'll spring a little surprise—the freshmen are going to have their say in this column next issue. 'Sfunny that green always was my favorite color—like fun. Anyway, green stands for freshness, and if they get too fresh—woe unto you, ye underclassmen! There will be some more fireworks besides those miniature Fourth of July celebrations in Grossmann hall.

Seen at Cupid's party: Schultheiss having a devil of a time; Amanda winning the girls' costume prize in a Walck-away; the Dionne quints acting their age; Johnny Vagts "getting in Dutch" —Warning to Brother Graf: Never go outside without a cap or hat—the woodpeckers are cutting up again. Kalkwarf says he has been absorbing a lot of punishment these days . . . If puns are the lowest form of humor, it should be getting a little warmer around us pretty soon— or else we'll hit rock bottom shortly.

"Philosophy means being able to tell why you are happy even when you are poor"—how about it, Dr. Hiltner? . . . And Harry prepares to emerge from his lair as the open season on "rabbits" comes to an end next week . . . Prof. Ottersberg—"If the vice-president of the United States dies during a congressional session, who officiates?"—History-shark Frederick—"The undertaker." Wonder if Ruth is becoming more Ed-ified or more Ed-ucated? And Irene doesn't know what she would do if she Drew-e-low grade some time.

Overheard some of the boys dis-cussing the need for a White Cane club for intramural referees . . . And Harden says, "You can't marry three pretty girls" . . . Saw a sign in a dress-shop window — "Ladies Ready-To-Wear Clothing"—and sophisticated Sam says, "It's about time."

Irene Gluck says she's going to enjoy a Scotch vacation this summer—stay at home and let her mind wander. Quoth Dr. Neumann—"What is outstanding in Plutarch's Lives?" Quick-on-the-trigger Langholz—"They did not have any barns in those days so the sheep were outstanding." . . . Schultheiss seems to have had quite a bit of G-Luck skating lately. And Grote says, "'Snow use shoveling any more" . . . Wonder if they call Emmons "dynamite" because he blows off so easily? Webb says one of the big disadvantages of bigamy is that you would have two mothers-in-law. Art says his two-day rest period is going to make a New-mann out of him.

This topsy-turvy world: Meinecke - Grosshans, Fietz - Weiss, Weiblen-Young . . . just a couple of combinations Friday night that set us a-wondering. Do you suppose they smile all the time at Grin-nell college?

Dedication this issue goes to N. N.—not an abbreviation for No Name. We wonder what she sees in such a Holm-ly looking guy. And Lew says his temperature has been Norma-l all year so far . . . Norma's favorite song—Holm, Sweet Holm.

There was a young fellow named Holm
Who plays quite a part in this poem;
And when he appeared,
quoth Norma, "'Tis strange,
Methought I left him Holm
on the range."

Organizations

W Club

Possible features for spring entertainment of the club were discussed at the "W" club meeting Feb. 17. Since the speakers for the evening were unable to be present, the entire meeting was devoted to business. A portion of the constitution was amended. The reports of the secretary and treasurer were very favorable.

One of the recent projects of the "W" club was the sale of polo shirts with the Knight emblem on them. The wearing of these shirts has stimulated considerable pep in the student body. The Little Knights enjoy these shirts and are trying to induce others to wear them.

At the close of the meeting a lunch was served. Stanley Roesler, Wilmuth Fruehling and Norbert Augst were in charge.

Pi Sigma

At a party which carried out the George Washington theme, the Pi Sigma entertained guests in the recreation room of Wartburg hall Saturday evening, Feb. 20.

The guests were ushered into the room by Amanda Walck, who represented Martha Washington and wore costumes of that period. The program consisted of nonsensical skits that also carried out the Washington theme. Various games were played, after which refreshments were served.

Those in charge were Esther Weiss, general chairman, Irene Drewelow, entertainment, and Geraldine Sixel, refreshments.

Wartburg Players

The dramatics club conducted its regular meeting in the recreation room of the girls' dormitory Sunday, Feb. 13, at 6:30 p. m.

The short program consisted of a scene from the play, "Pride and Prejudice," enacted by Ada Mae Little and Harry Rappath, and a reading by Ruth Fritz.

To Chew or Not to Chew

by Esther Weiss

Much has been written to convince our young minds that gum-chewing should become one of the lost arts.

Why We Chew

When we seriously apply our attention to this subject we discover that there are many excellent reasons why we chew. First of all, it is the best substitute that has as yet been found for the chewing of tobacco. Truly the vision of a man chewing a harmless stick of Juicy Fruit is more pleasing to the eye than that of one munching a "plug" accompanied by the brown trimmings. Then, gum perfumes the breath. If we heed the warnings of magazine advertsiements we now are aware of the fact that halitosis is the all-too-often-unknown reason of social downfall. The chewing of gum is also a valuable aid in concentration. When one is about to write a theme and one cannot think of a subject, if one then extracts one stick of gum from the cellophane package and places it in the mouth, ideas immediately take form. Now the habit of chewing gum is a comparatively inexpensive habit. No great amount of money is spent when one purchases a package of gum. The cost is a penny for one stick or five cents a package. There is one kind of gum which advertises that it is of special value in keeping teeth snowy-white. Reasons for chewing are certainly many and varied.

Objections

Why do individuals object to this very useful habit? It seems that they do not appreciate the technique of executing the art. They frown upon that person who widens the aperature between the jaws until one fears dislocation of a bone and who then almost closes those jaws while making a noise that sounds like "squish, squash". Still more disconcerting is that person who tires of the monotony of masticating. He places the gum between his tongue and upper front teeth, forms it into a certain shape, plants it squarely on the front of his teeth with the tip of his forefinger, and then causes a most disturbing explosion. Another individual who likes variety places a bit of gum between his thumb and forefinger and pulls in a manner resembling the old-fashioned taffy-pulls. The most interesting sight is yet to come, however, for he now holds this gum high above his head and then quickly reels it in as a fisherman reels in a line. An objection of which I can not approve is that which says that there seems to be a blank expression on the face of a person chewing gum. There is a statement which says that the difference between a cow chewing her cud and a girl chewing her gum is the intelligent look on the cow's face. After all, we must relinquish that look of intelligence now and then in order to rest the muscles of our face.

The problem facing us now seems to be the education of people on the topic of how to chew gum. When this problem is met with knowledge and foresight, it will only be a matter of time until the habit of chewing gum will be accepted and will become universal.

NOT NEW BUT TRUE

DIOGENES' QUESTIONNAIRE

(By Ruth Fritz)

Ah! The ambition of youth! Wartburgers are filled with it! Oh, to be a millionaire, a movie star, an engineer, a Ph. D., a butcher, a baker, a-sleep! Well, 'tis nice to still have ambition in these difficult days when all effort seems fruitless . . . . . which of course it isn't. Anyway, hope still reigns supreme in the hearts of these lads and lassies below who were asked: "What is your ambition in life?"

Leslie Stanek: "To grow about five inches taller and take the place of Clark Gable. After all, what has Clark got (besides large ears) that I haven't got?" . . . (Yea, what has he?)

Sandy: "To be a bootlegger."

Frieda Gross: (with a scared look in her eyes for some unknown reason, which I have not as yet been able to diagnose, though it looks to me like a clear case of guilty conscieuce.) "Why-a-to teach, of course." (With the conviction that teaching is the noblest little profession in the world) "I want to teach German in some little country town." (I pressed her to tell what little town, but got no explanation.)

Irene Drewelow: "I want to be successful in primary teaching with music as a sideline. Then I also want to go to New York and see something of the world." (The world, methinks, will not be found in New York.)

Leonard Fritschel: "All I want is 10 hours of sleep at a stretch and a roommate like Danitschek next year." (Paging Mr. Danitschek.)

Norma Neubauer "To do what I can and do it well."

Gertrude Grosshans: "Oh, I don't know . . . I guess I'll get an M. A. so I'll know how to eat the holes out of doughnuts." (Seems to me that ambition has a deeper meaning than it would appear.)

Wenske: "I want to amount to something." (Well, Paul, that's something!)

Ted Danitschek: "I haven't enough ambition to have an ambition . . . but I do want to get through school."

Coach Hertel: "To marry a girl with a million, get a Ph. D. in zoology, and be connected with athletics for a few more years while I can still totter around." (Now there's ambition for you!)

Evelyn Eichorst: "To teach blind children reading and writing and if I get to do that, I think I'll be satisfied."

Miss Flugga: "To go home and sleep for a week!"

Herb Adix: "To have enough money so that I can take all the pictures I want to, wherever I want to, and with every kind of camera." (The catch is in that phrase 'wherever I want to.')

I had been wondering and wondering why no one confessed to having marriage as his or her goal, 'cause after all, they say it's a great institution, and at last I ran across one honest chap—Obenauer. "You got me, sister!" he said at first . . . "I haven't any real ambition yet. I just want to be successful, see Europe some day and, get married!"

OELWEIN SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT GIVES ADDRESS

Other Interesting Speakers Appear In Convocation.

The Rev. Earl Hodgkin, Plainfield, Iowa, was the speaker at the convocation exercises of Wartburg college on Monday morning, Feb. 14. Mr. Hodgkin discussed the present-day conditions of the nations of the world and asked, "Can the Christianity as we know it today solve the problems which we face?"

"Christianity as we know it today can be defined in the word, 'get.' The Christianity of Jesus can also be summed up in one word, 'give,' said the speaker.

The Rev. Mr. Hodgkin further maintained that if we taught the Christianity of Jesus today we could solve all our problems and said, "I don't believe we have ever given Christianity a real trial."

Mr. Hodgkin concluded by saying, "The Christianity of Jesus Christ can answer every problem that you have."

Educator Speaks.

The superintendent of the public schools of Oelwein, Iowa, Grover Farrell, spoke on "Our Building Program" in convocation Tuesday morning, Feb. 15.

Mr. Farrell pointed out that all persons go to college for a purpose—because they are building something. "Our chief interest is building. What are you building?" he asked.

As a guide to good building, the speaker discussed four points to keep in mind—high ideals, good physique, strong mental development, and religion.

For a closing thought, Mr. Farrell read a short poem, stressing the fact that everyone should build well because "I have to live with myself."

Braulick Talks.

President Braulick addressed the assembly Wednesday morning, Feb. 16, on the topic, "Little things are the great things," based on Luke 10:40.

The way we acquire our ideals is to be faithful in the little things of life. "The way you handle the little things of life, the leisure moments, will tell what you are," said Mr. Braulick.

He showed how Napoleon Archelaus, and KuChang overlooked some of the small details and thus were defeated. However, Lucretius, Morse, Lincoln, Carlyle, and Pullman are a few examples of men who gave little things their full importance.

"Little things are the making or breaking of men and women," the speaker said, and asked, "What are you doing with your leisure time?"

Hiltner Speaks.

On Monday, Feb. 21, Dr. John Hiltner spoke to the students on the subject "Washington, the Christian."

Of Washington, Mr. Hiltner said, "His papers did not show a single use of the phrase, 'Jesus Christ.'" "However," he continued, "if Christianity consists in the conviction that our life and the world are guided by providence then Washington is qualified."

"The spirit of America in the days of Washington and in our day" was the subject on which President Braulick spoke in convocation on Tuesday, Feb. 22.

He pointed out the religious aspect of the lives of national heroes, especially in Revolutionary days. Washington, especially, turned to God in his time of need at Valley Forge.

"As long as we have vision and it is directed to God," said Mr. Braulick, "we should stand supreme. In God we trust! That was the emblem of Washington. That should be used also in our day."

Mardorf Addresses Group.

Rev. C. J. Mardorf, Sumner, Iowa, addressed the students on Wednesday, Feb. 23, pointing out the importance of education in giving us a more complete life, and reminding us that Christ, the center and source of life, told us that He came so that we might have life more abundantly.

"Education," stated Mr. Mardorf, "is life, and the real object of education is to give man more abundant life, in short, to prepare us for complete living. Are you considering your school days as such?"

The Rev. Mr. Mardorf proceeded by saying that only through actual work, which is both a necessity and a blessing, can we attain a full life. In spite of this, students are of the listless worker type, he said.

"Christianity is the foster - mother of every true form of education. Let us seek Him who said, 'I am come that you might have life,'" said Mr. Mardorf.

Outside Speakers Address Adults

Last Monday evening, Feb. 21, Miss I. Ratzlaff at the meeting of her adult class in parent education presented a brief review of a lecture given by Dr. Blatz at the annual Farmer's and Homemakers' week held at Iowa State college at Ames. Dr. Blatz is director of the child guidance clinic at St. George school, Toronto, Canada, and also serves in the unique position of psychologist for the Dionne quintuplets.

In his lecture on parent education and child development, he stressed especially the thought that the goal of all parent education and child development should be emancipation.

On Feb. 22, Miss Ratzlaff's evening groups attended the 1938 preview of interior decoration. A. Zahn, local interior decorator, demonstrated various kinds of washable wallpapers and draperies.

Monday evening, Feb. 28, Prof. A. W. Swenson will give a demonstration on "How to Refinish Old Furniture." The treatment of black walnut in particular will be taken up. Mr. Swenson is experienced in this field and has some beautiful pieces of work to his credit.

23,383 VOLUMES IN SEM LIBRARY

Librarian Goetz Collecting Religious Periodicals; Pastors Borrow Books.

Wartburg seminary is glad to announce that it has a library which is indeed complimentary to the seminary itself. A recent survey showed that there is a great amount of material on hand, covering all fields of theological study.

At the time of the survey, there were 23,383 volumes in the library. Of this number, 3,000 are rare books. Besides these there are 2,266 bound magazines, and approximately 80,000 unbound.

Goetz Collects Periodicals.

One of the projects in which the librarian, William F. Goetz, is engaged at present is the collecting of back numbers of the Kirchenblatt and the Kirchliche Zeitschrift. It is the hope of the librarian to have four full sets completed before the opening of the fall term.

The library holdings of other religious periodicals, especially those of historical value are also increasing. The latest addition is a set of "The Lutheran Pioneer", made possible through the efforts of the Rev. H. Poland of Seattle, Washington.

Gathering of Synodical Reports

Another project receiving special attention is the gathering of synodical reports. It is the aim of the librarian to have a complete file of synodical reports, specializing in district and general reports of the former Iowa Synod. Through the courtesy of Dr. Emil H. Rausch, a splendid collection has been added lately.

Pastors Are Interested.

Pastors interested in the improvement of the seminary library have been cooperating in the projects. Without their vital concern and generous contributions, much of the valuable material would soon be unobtainable.

New Accessions to the Library.

Among the new accesions in the book section are found the following sets: The Cambridge Modern History, 13 volumes; The Encyclopedia of the Social Sciences, 8 volumes; and The Americana, 30 volumes.

Pastors Use Library.

The number of pastors who have made use of the service offered by the library is increasing. In requesting books by mail the following regulations are to be observed. Any titles, in the library and not on reserve, will be sent by mail for a loan period of four weeks or less. Postage both ways is to be paid by the borrower.

Seminary Notes

International Relations Club

Walter Tillmanns, senior, presented a paper entitled, "Five Years of Nazism," at the regular meeting of the International Relations club, Tuesday evening, Feb. 22. The club is a student organization which discusses international happenings at monthly meetings.

Mr. Tillmanns' native country is Germany. In October, 1936, he came to America to finish his seminary course at Wartburg seminary. Mr. Tillmanns saw the work of the Nazi regime among the German people for the first four years of its existence. Since leaving Germany he has been following it very closely.

With such a background Mr. Tillmanns gave a very interesting and informative discourse on Nazism. Before the paper was read a brief resume of the three following divisions in the Nazi order was given; the rise of National Socialism; Nazism in power; and Achievements of Nazism.

Near the end of his paper Mr. Tillmanns stated, "The Germans know that Hitler has unified the Reich, given Germany an army in which young men are taught discipline and manners, put Germany back on the world map and made it a power which no nation dare resist. They believe that Germany has once again become a land of 'Ruhe and Ordnung'—peace and order."

Filing Club Organized.

The Filing club, a newly organized group at the seminary, holds its meetings bi-weekly. The club is under the supervision of Rev. William Goetz, seminary librarian.

On Thursday evening, March 3, the meeting will be in charge of Julius Holm, graduate student; Bruno Schlachtenhaufen, senior; and Arnold Jahr, middler. These three men will explain their own systems of filing to the club which consists of approximately twenty-five members.

The Filing club is a novel organization in that it proposes to acquaint the seminary students with that system of filing which will best satisfy the needs of a pastor.

Realizing the advantages of keeping valuable material intact, a number of students have begun their own files.

Dr. Reu Returns

Dr. M. Reu returned Sunday night, from Parkland, Washington, where he had been attending the third annual institute for Lutheran pastors of the west coast. Dr. Reu spoke at this institute.

It's A Good Thing Cupid Has A Year To Recuperate Again

Uninvited Cupid Shoots With an Eagle Eye.

An Excerpt From Cupid's Diary
February 13, 1938

I thought I would take a rest from my labors and attend the Wartburg all-school Valentine party. No rest did I get, however, for I couldn't bear to see so many good hearts going to waste! I had to shoot at them. The students tried to fool me—some of the fellows came as girls and some of the girls as fellows, I really had a hard night of it.

From my place on the stage I watched the entire evening. Steamers of red and white, hearts everywhere was the theme of the evening. It wasn't long and my old friends, Martha and George Washington, came in, looking as lovely as usual with their white hair. Papa and mamma Dionne and their five entered. There was no need for arrows there! A Spanish couple—Toreador, be ready—came in. Ah, a lovely young couple: Senor with sparkling brown eyes and Senorita with a rose in her hair. Then in rapid succession came a hobo (I never saw one that looked more happy-go-lucky), a pirate (with a patch over one eye—he looked sinister, so I did not go near), some sweet Dutch girls, the bartender who advertised Hamm's beer right on his apron, Major Bowes with his usual grin, a trumpeter, a drum major, a Scotchman, a deacon, five farmerettes, several colonial dames and several men in tuxes that must have been among the upper five hundred.

Two convicts who had a leave of absence for the evening were being supervised by Sherlock Holmes. They did have black eyes, but I still think you needed a bigger billy-club, Sherlock. When Herr Rapath entered all dolled up in a tux, with a girl who had that come-hither look in her eye, the crowd warmly welcomed them. But when old Nick himself walked in, the evening was complete. The horns, the tail, and the nose certainly called for a prize, but that long underwear took the cake!

While the group played games, I was busy shooting arrows. It won't be long and we'll be able to see how they worked. That idea of the girls' choosing their partner by means of his feet was superb—too bad Fietz wasn't there. I certainly enjoyed myself even if I was unnoticed. I'd like to leave one suggestion with you —next year let's have the faculty come as baboes.

And so ended another busy evening—I really have my hands full at Wartburg. Ho hum, I must turn in, now.

Miss Madelin Hoerschelmann is expected to return to school the beginning of next week after spending the last few days at her home in Andrew, recuperating from a recent illness.

Charles Schmitz, genial Mendota sophomore, is still confined to his bed with a serious throat malady after several weeks illness.

A Student Reader's Guide

In the issue of Feb. 12 this space was given over to the "Student Reader's Guide."

Since we have received no comment, favorable or otherwise, on this innovation, the column will not be run this time. The preparation of such a guide requires a considerable expenditure of time and effort on the part of the faculty editor; he must go through a mass of current literature in the library, pick out topics of interest, and carefully annotate them. If within the next week a fair number of students shall inform Dr. Hiltner, the contributor of the first list, of their interest in this column, we shall resume its publication.

THE STAFF.

Gerberding Gives L. L. Bible Topic

"If I Should Study Bible Words" was the topic presented by Arlene Gerberding at the meeting of the Wartburg Luther league on Sunday evening, Feb. 6. Miss Gerberding pointed out that there are several Key words in the Bible which everyone should study and that many questions may be asked of each word from various viewpoints.

It is important, profitable and a pleasure to study Bible words," said Miss Gerberding. Some examples of such words are "saved" (Acts 2:21.) How saved? By whom saved? Why saved? Who is saved? Saved from what? "Abundance" (John 10:10.) What may possess it? The obligations of possession? Who receives? "Witness" (Acts 1:8.) What is a witness? Witness to what? Who is witness? When witness? In many instances the Bible is read with too much haste. Little thought is given to the significance of some of the simple words.

The devotion service was in charge of Edna Fedeler. The Wartburg college girls trio sang "Softs and Gently Jesus Is Calling." In the discussion period the following questions from the question box were considered: "What is repentance?" "What is the fruit of true repentance?" "What is an Israelite in deed?"

The league decided to purchase a new series of posters to be placed in the rear of the church. A committee was appointed to consider ways of raising money for the parish house. At the next meeting Feb. 27, Lenten self-denial offering envelopes will be handed to all members. This offering is used for medical missions in New Guinea. This devotion period at this meeting will be devoted to a study of mission work.

Inquiring Reporter Gets Facts on the 'Henhouse'

In Which a Lot of Foolishness Is Expounded.

By Eric Fietz

This dialogue takes place at Wartburg hall at two-tongued, triple-threat bullite session between Ruth and Naomi. The latter is younger than her conversation would indicate. Both characters are fictitious until further notice.

Scene I

Time—11:00 p. m. on no particular evening. After thought—it is wintertime. The girls are in dishabille (which doesn't necessarily mean that they ever were waitresses.) Ruth has the only chair available, the other one is propped underneath the doorknob. Naomi is sitting on a very large rug used to light on in the morning.

Ruth—Y'know 'Omee, half the married people in the U. S. are men. That's sociology.

Naomi—Yeah, but I ain't in that half.

Ruth — Somebody mentioned that we had a marriage clinic over here. So far I haven't seen any results.

Naomi — No results! I could mention some people who have settled down and stay put now and show signs of staying that way for a while.

Ruth—Well, we couldn't let you get away with Staehling the show all by yourselves. Tee-hee, now will that hold you? The guy in Smoke and Embers certainly must have had you in mind judging from the writeup he gave this dorm a couple of issues ago.

Naomi—All I can say is: I'd like to see any man, distinguishable from a gorilla that even you couldn't make a husband out of. I am including those who razzed Wartburg hall.

Ruth—Um . . . I dunno. You can't make sumpin outa nothin'. That's creation. I'd rather think of "evolution". That reminds me more of monkeys.

Naomi—I wonder how they got outa the jungle.

Ruth—I hear one of 'em had voice trouble, the rest thought it was contagious. The other one is literary-minded. He used to write for a living, but the critics were tough on him. So he's starting at rock-bottom again. They say his ears are so big he can carry a journalism style-book and a pencil behind either of them.

Naomi—Yeah, and they sure must have had some trouble finding good-natured roommates. One of the dashing Romeos, who has the tenor canary wished on him is under the softening influence of this same marriage clinic. When I first saw her I says, "My, my, it's a small world."

Ruth—(Yawns) Let's put the cat out and go to bed. Move that chair outa the way.

Naomi—Some people go to bed with the chickens. Must be farm influence. No wonder somebody said that this was a henhouse. But I still don't see where Kronberger fits in.

Ruth—Somebody told me he was influenced to the extent of taking Miss Ratzlaff's home ec course.

Naomi — Still, by taking the course, some of the boys might learn how to eat peas with a knife. Shucks, everybody can make 'em stay on a fork.

Ruth—One thing is certain. If we could persuade the handpicked gentlemen of the place to take home ec. we might develop a high type around here. Sort of the perfect man, you know.

Naomi—But wouldn't it be kinda funny going for a walk with one of 'em and having them find their way around with a flashlight?

Ruth—Oh, you're hopeless, good night.

Council Considers Initiation, Annual

Plans for next year's initiation of new students were discussed at the regular meeting of the student council in the recreation room of Wartburg hall on Sunday, Feb. 13. The council authorized its president, Mr. Danitschek, to appoint a committee to meet with the faculty student guidance committee to consider the matter.

At its meeting on Sunday, Feb. 20, the council considered the advisability of compiling an examination schedule for the second semester and the possibility of adding an extra fee to the student activities fee to pay for the college annual. These two questions were presented to the student body Feb. 24.

RINKYDINKS WIN OVER PEACOCKS

Koob Leads Scoring for Wartburg: Timm and Smith for Peacocks.

The Wartburg college Rinkydinks again broke into the win column Friday night, Feb. 18, by defeating the Upper Iowa B's, 30-21.

The score was close all through the first half. About midway, with the score tied, Ihnen sank a long shot to put Wartburg in the lead. Koob and Chadwick each contributed a bucket to put the tally up to 11-5 before Upper Iowa found the hoop for four points. The score at the half stood 11-9 with the Rinkydinks on the big end of the count.

The second canto got under way with both teams getting 2 buckets before Wartburg, led by two more long shots by Ihnen, put the count up to 23-13. Timm and Lorber then contributed 4 points for the Peacocks before Koob again swished the net 3 times to the Upper Iowans 2. E. Wagner sank a free throw to finish the scoring with the Little Wartburgers ahead 30 to 21.

Koob starred for the Rinkydinks with 13 points. Timm and Smith tied for honors for Upper Iowa with 5 points each.

KNIGHTIES BEAT WAVERLY SEXTET

Coeds Trounce Town Rivals in 54-35 Scoring Fest; Gluck Scores 27 Points.

The Wartburg Knighties took the measure of the Waverly high school sextet in a game played on the high school floor Monday, March 15. The final score was 54-35. It was the second victory of this season for the college girls over their town rivals.

The game was not a runaway as the score implies, but a closely fought battle, at least for the first three quarters. The game started slowly; and at the half the score was knotted at 16-all. In the second half the lead see-sawed back and forth, and the end of the third quarter found the score still tied, but this time it was 33-all. The college girls really turned on the heat in the last period, and the forwards ran up 24 more points as the guards held their opponents to one field goal.

Viv Gluck was once more the high scorer as she ran wild and accounted for 27 markers. Erma Clark, also of Wartburg, added 14 points to her team's total.

WARTBURG GALS LOSE CAGE TILT

Plainfield Sextet Put on a Determined Last-Minute Rally, Winning 34-28.

Last Thursday night the Wartburg Girls' basketball team traveled to Plainfield and suffered a disheartening defeat after leading in points until the last three minutes of play. The score was 34-28.

At the very beginning of the game the Knighties jumped into the lead, and it seemed as if there would be no question about the result. By the time the first half was over the Wartburg sextet was leading by the score of 22 to 10. During this half Viv Gluck scored 10 points and her teammate Erma Clark scored 8. The guards also played nice basketball, holding the definitely dangerous Plainfield forwards to 10 points.

A determined Plainfield team took the floor when the whistle opened the second half. Slowly they overcame their tremendous handicap and during the last three minutes of the game scored 10 points to clinch the victory.

The leading scorer was Beach, of Plainfield, who contributed 18 points to her team's total. Viv Gluck was close behind with 14 markers.

HERTELMEN TIP WESTERN UNION BY 40-35 SCORE

Knights Whip Eagles in Final Tilt for .500 Rating.

The Wartburg quintet wound up their Iowa conference competition, Feb. 23, when they defeated the Western Union Eagles 40-35 in their own roost at LeMars. This third consecutive conference triumph enabled the Hertelmen to finish with a .500 per cent rating in the Iowa loop.

The Knights were slow in getting started during the first half, and as a result, they trailed the Eagles 18-16 at the half. In the second half, the Wartburgers hit their stride and began to spot the hoop consistently, soon overtaking the LeMars cagers. The final whistle saw the Knights holding a 5 point margin.

Becker led the Knights in scoring with 13 points, closely followed by Luetkens and Harden with 10 and 9 points respectively. Caskey and Voas paced the losers with 11 points apiece.

KNIGHTS DEFEAT BEAVERS 31-26

Becker, Wartburg Center, Leads Scoring Attack of the Evening with 12.

The Wartburg Knights journeyed to Storm Lake, Feb. 22, and there they defeated the Buena Vista Beavers by a 31-26 decision. This victory avenged an early season defeat at the hands of the Beaver quintet.

The Knights jumped into the lead early in the game and held a 15-11 advantage at the half. With a few minutes left to play, the Storm Lakers put on a desperate rally but were unable to catch up with the powerful Wartburg quintet which flashed a stylish kind of ball.

The Knights played a good defensive game, holding the auburn-tinted Cuddy, flashy Beaver forward, to a scoreless game. Becker, Wartburg center, paced the Knights with 12 points, Luetkens with 6 points, and Harden with 5 added to the Knight's scoring. Hilburn racked up 10 points for the losers.

This column is dedicated to the Wartburg Knights and their coach, Mr. Hertel. We must certainly congratulate them on their recent three successive victories which enabled them to end up with a .500 per cent standing in the Iowa conference. Since the last two victories, over Buena Vista and Western Union, were revenge victories, that makes it all the sweeter, so to speak. Ah, yes, we also triumphed over the Peacocks for the third consecutive time. Upon first thought, it may seem that breaking even in the Iowa loop wasn't much of an accomplishment. Consider for a moment, however, that this is only our second year in conference competition. In view of that fact, I think that the Knights made a good showing. After all, who wants to go through a season undefeated? (saur grapes!) No. The higher one climbs to the top, the harder it is to fall! All that goes up must come down! Enough of this nonsense! At any rate, congratulations to the 1938 Knights led by Co-captains Opperman and Luetkens.

Who Will Win?

Next week, the class teams will swing into action. It is here that one witnesses the real spirit of rivalry in athletics. Some of these encounters remind one of a Kentucky mountain feud between clans. Each team has an almost equal chance of winning. If I were to risk a few farthings on a bet, I would place it on the junior class as the most likely winner of the tourney. Chiz Wagner, leading scorer in the intramural league, will be the backbone of the junior quintet. What is more, the juniors have such stars as Koob, Paup, Kalkwarf, Nielson, Fritschel, Freuhling, and Mighty Mite Matthias. What chance has any other class? Whoa! I really stuck my head into it that time. Well, facts are facts! (Dear reader; please don't quote me. I'm just shooting in the dark.)

All-Sport Night.

It's about time that we consider a date for All-Sports Night. Last year's event turned out fine. Everybody had a good time. We saw a girl's game, a volley ball game, and the finals of the class tournament. The same scheme might be worked out this year. It is rumored that the Gas House Gang under Stuff Sandrock are quite willing to take on any comers in a volley ball game—in fact, they would like to take on the "Big Cheeses" from the Badger state. Another good drawing card would be a cage tilt between the faculty and one of the intramural teams. 'Tis rumored that the faculty are suffering from a bad case of "cold feet". What say, Coach Huth? Why not put across this All-Sports Night. Since this has been a project of the Trumpet staff dating back to last year, we male members of the staff extend a challenge to the faculty in the form of a basketball game to be held on All-Sports Night.

Many interesting things happen in intramurals. The butt of all ridicule is the referee. When things go wrong, always blame the referee—so goes the motto. Scarcely a game goes by without a technical or two being called for ruffling the Ref's humor. "Immy" Kuester has a hobby of collecting technicals on that charge. Even Brother Arnie must reprimand him at times for disrespectful words to the dignified officials. And then, too, there is Kalkwarf, who forgot himself and has regretted it ever since. That's all right, Carl, the referee will let you play if you will be a good little boy and promise not to sit down on the floor and sulk.

Was Unkie's face ever red when he sank three long-distance shots during one of the B-team games. Unkie said it was awful hard to act modest about it.

Finale.

One more basketball game! Next Tuesday evening the Knights will play their last game of the season against Fort Dodge junior college. This will be the last cage tilt for Harden, Luetkens, Opperman, Engelbrecht and Rappath. All four will graduate this spring. Mighty fine cagers, these men. Their loss will be keenly felt.

—S—

Present plans are to run off the finals of the inter-class tournament on Saturday morning, Mar. 5. There have been many complaints with regard to this date. Many of the students must work on Saturdays; others want to go home, and still others like to sleep on Saturday morning. In view of this fact, may I suggest that the director of intramurals schedule this game some other time, preferably some evening. Certainly, we can spare some evening to run off the championship game and a consolation game. That would enable more students to attend the games and cheer their favorites on to victory. Since basketball season is over and also since there will be no other conflicting events such as lyceums or otherwise, I think that this scheme could be worked out. General sentiment favors an evening game!

CLASS TOURNEY TO BE STAGED

Next Week Will See Various Classes Pitted Against Each Other in Cage Tilts.

The super-classic of the intramural basketball season will take place next week when the various classes will be pitted against each other in a mad scramble for the championship. The teams will be exceedingly evenly matched this year and there will be plenty of action. An elimination tournament will be held to determine the winner.

Elections for captains were held during the past week. Holm and Ihnen will lead the yearlings. Sandrock will pilot the sophomores. Koob will lead the juniors, and Kirchdoerfer will guide the destinies of the seniors. The seniors are the defending champions who will be hard pushed by the other three teams. Last year, the seniors won over the fighting sophomores, now juniors by a 26-23 decision. Incidentally, the present junior class won the title in their freshman year.

Don't forget the time! Next week! Come down and yell for your respective classes. Make it a noisy affair.

KNIGHTS AGAIN TIP UPPER IOWA PEACOCKS 46-36

Down Traditional Foe Third Time in Four Conf. Games.

The Wartburg Knights succeeded in turning the Upper Iowa Peacocks back for the second time this season when they met here at the high school gym, Friday, February 18. The Wartburgers led by 5 points at the half and won the game by a margin of 10.

Gathering the first 5 markers by free throws, the Hertelmen kept close enough to the Peacocks to keep the spectators on the edge of their seats. Opperman sank a long one from the 10 second line. Led by Becker, the Knights kept bombarding the kettle to emerge at the end of the first half with a 21-16 advantage.

Tate, the Peacock's high scorer, was held down to 2 buckets the first half. Waldron, Upper Iowa forward, also succeeded in garnering 4 points.

Oppermann again started things off with a bang at the beginning of the second half when he gathered 2 buckets and a free throw before Upper Iowa could score. Throughout the remainder of the last half, the two teams matched basket for basket. The play was fast with both teams rushing the ball up the floor when they gained possession of it.

Both Becker and Rimmer, Peacock center, left the game on fouls late in the half. With only a few minutes left to play, both coaches substituted freely.

The final score stood at 46-36, with Opperman showing up best for the Hertelmen with 13 tallies. Tate and Rimmer each succeeded in chalking up 10 points for Upper Iowa.

BASEBALL SQUAD PICK CAPTAINS

Knitt and Luetkens Will Lead the Knights on the Diamond This Spring.

Erwin Knitt and Walter Luetkens have been elected co-captains of the Wartburg baseball team for the coming spring season. Knitt hails from Clintonville, Wis., and has played on the college nine for the past two years, holding down the first base position. Luetkens of Reedsburg, Wis., also a senior, has been playing at the second base post for the past two years. This is Wally's second captaincy for the year, having been one of the co-captains of the basketball team.

The Knights can look for a good season this year since a number of letter men will be available for a nucleus upon which to build a formidable team. There will be a scarcity of pitching material, however, and the loss of the hurling Canadians will be keenly felt. Johnnie Emmons, who did a nice job of twirling last year, will be on the mound again this season.

As yet no definite schedule has been arranged, but the near future will see that accomplishment. Within a few more weeks now, we should be hearing the umpire's old familiar call, "Play ball!"
